

SCAPPS PRE-CONFERENCE WORKSHOP

ENHANCING YOUR TEACHING TOOLBOX

Teaching is a large part of an academic career, yet rarely do we receive training in pedagogy. This workshop will provide an opportunity to reflect on your approach to teaching and to develop and/or refine a variety of pedagogical tools for a course you are about to teach for the 1st, 10th or 20th time.

Who should attend this workshop?

Anyone interested in learning how to help students learn more effectively – whether you are a doctoral student, post-doctoral fellow or an early, mid or late career faculty member – it is never too early or too late to develop skills and techniques to improve student learning in the classroom.

What will I learn in this workshop?

By the end of this workshop you will:

1. Be able to identify evidence-based ways in which students learn
2. To articulate important principles related to course design
3. Have engaged in a variety of hands-on activities where you will discover simple strategies that you can begin to incorporate into your courses to increase student engagement and learning outcomes.
4. Be part of a new community of practice that will share resources and activities related to teaching in human kinetics and related fields.
